

SARAH STAPLETON

Director of Finance

How long have you been with Sheffcare?

Over 12 years.

How did you get to this job?

Sheffcare was my first job after university, I studied accounting and my first job here was leading accounts assistant. My work placement when I was a student was in a charity my parents had a lot to do with social care and psychology so Sheffcare felt like a good place to work. I was promoted first to Management Accountant, then Head of Finance, then Director of Finance.

What do you like most about the job?

Being in the background of enabling people to have a great day. I want to be a part of offering what my Nannar and Grandad had, enabling other people to have that same level of great care.

What's the hardest bit of the job?

Not ever having enough time, I can't physically do more. We have a very small finance team for the size of the organization.

What do you like doing outside work?

Spending time with family and friends

What is something surprising about you or something that people wouldn't know?

I like doing Jigsaws with my Mum and walking in the countryside.

What are you proud of?

I don't like the word 'proud' however I am grateful to have loving family and friends.
